SUPPLEMENT

3. The training is purely voluntary and consists of six weeks of two hours daily drill and training, for which no salary is received. Each group consists of approximately 6000 men in the 20 - 40 age group, who "enlist". The group is divided into ten branches which correspond to the police districts of the city. Each branch is formed for the protection of the citizens in a particular district.

8. On 28 August, the first group completed the six weeks course. These men were trained with old rifles, which were turned in upon completion of the training period. It is expected however, that several thousand rifles will be received soon, and will be issued along with 50 rounds of ammunition per man, to each trainee.

4. A second group of 6000 was expected to begin training in the middle of September.

5. [REDACTED] approximately 6000 civilians of the first group have completed their training and about 4000 civilians of the second group are in the third week of their training period, as of 4 October 1946. Rifles are used for drilling purposes only, since they are not standardized, and sufficient ammunition is not available. Political instruction is also included in the training course. Further training for about 2000 civilians of the first group is being planned; upon completion of this training, these civilians will be used as auxiliary police.

6. [REDACTED] have been approached by their employees demanding time off, with no deductions in pay, to attend these drills. They claim that they are being trained in event that the Communists invade Tientsin. [REDACTED] has been approached by the police with a request for daily food money of CNC 2000 per day for six weeks for two of her employees while they are in training for the Police Auxiliary Volunteer Corps. Furthermore, they also requested that [REDACTED] as an employer, purchase a uniform for each man. To date, all requests have been refused by [REDACTED] and as yet, none of her employees is in training.
